

Fans of the Italian Rococo style will not want to let this interesting piece slip past them. We are calling this a barometer, but is so much more. Yes, it does have an aneroid barometer but it also possess a thermometer and hydrometer. I guess a better description might be a decorative weather station. Aside from offering all the atmospheric data one could ever want it is also aesthetically beautiful. The case is carved in wood and has a natural feeling poly-chromatic finish. This piece would add a special touch to a living room or bedroom.
